DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c ) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 103 as being unpatentable over JP 2001181759 (PTO-1449).

JP 2001181759 discloses Cu based alloy composition (claim 2) and tensile and electrical conductivity (Table 2). JP 2001181759 does not disclose tensile property as yield strength as recited in claim 1. But, tensile strength and yield strength for Cu electrical alloys are about the same because of the spring property. As stated in In re Peterson, 315 F.3d 1325, 1329-30, 65 USPQ2d 1379, 1382 (Fed. Cir. 2003), that “A prima facie case of obviousness typically exists when the ranges of a claimed composition overlap the ranges disclosed in the prior art”. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to select any portion of range, including the claimed range, from the broader range disclosed in a prior art reference because the prior art reference finds that the prior art composition in the entire disclosed range has a suitable utility. Also see MPEP § 2131.03 and § 2123.

Claims 5-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 103 as being unpatentable over JP 09263864 or JP 2002038246 (both are in PTO-1449).

Cited references disclose Cu based alloy composition in their abstracts. The Cu based alloy compositions of cited references overlap the claimed Cu based compositions. As stated in In re Peterson, 315 F.3d 1325, 1329-30, 65 USPQ2d 1379, 1382 (Fed. Cir. 2003), that “A prima facie case of obviousness typically exists when the ranges of a claimed composition overlap the ranges disclosed in the prior art”. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to select any portion of range, including the claimed range, from the broader range disclosed in a prior art reference because the prior art reference finds that the prior art composition in the entire disclosed range has a suitable utility. Also see MPEP § 2131.03 and § 2123.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed December 7, 2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

~~Applicant respectfully requests reconsideration of the rejection of claims 1- 7 as~~

Applicants argue that “ anticipated by JP2001181759. ” which is found inconsistent with the record. None of the instant claims is rejected under 35 U.S.C. §102 or “anticipated” (see above rejections and prior office action mailed July 7, 2006).

Applicants’ argument in pages 9/10 of instant remarks with respect to JP 2001181759 is noted. But, JP 2001181759 teaches Ti as an additive element to the copper based alloy (see claim 2). JP 2001181759 discloses copper based alloy can achieve 725 N/mm<sup>2</sup> tensile strength which is about 105.34 ksi.

JP09263864 fails to disclose or suggest a copper-titanium alloy of the claimed Applicants argue that “ composition with the claimed electrical and physical properties. While JP09263864 ” But, instant claims 5-7 do not recited any range of electrical and/or tensile properties.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.

Applicant is reminded that when amendment and/or revision is required, applicant should therefore specifically point out the support for any amendments made to the disclosure. See 37 C.F.R. § 1.121; 37 C.F.R. Part §41.37 (c)(1)(v); MPEP §714.02; and MPEP §2411.01(B).
